New shops & eateries

Despite a "difficult" business year thus far, a number of new shops and restaurants are on the way to West Sacramento, reports the city's economic development department.

Coming to the Riverpoint Marketplace, near Ikea, Walmart and Home Depot:

A "Ross Dress for Less" department store is slated to open in early 2010.

A T-Mobile cellular phone store has opened.

Beach Hut Deli is open, or will be shortly.

Radio Shack has opened a new location, as have Golden 1 Credit Union.

A Round Table Pizza and IHOP restaurant are both in the works, as are plans for an "America's Tire Store."

A "Wild West Pizza/BBQ" restaurant is planned for Southport at the Jefferson Plaza (near South Linden Road and the Montessori school).

In other positive business news, the CalSTRS office tower is now occupied (1,200 people at full occupancy) in the tall blue tower near the riverfront and Tower Bridge. A Hampton Inn has brought 75 jobs to West Sacramento, and the state Department of Water Resources brought 350 this year.

But the city lost "C&S Wholesale Grocers" to Stockton, taking away over 400 employees. City officials offered a package of local, state and federal incentives worth $5 million to $10 million to C&S Wholesale Grocers, but was unable to keep C&S.

The report from Ernesto Lucero and Diane Richards, city economic development staffers, said that West Sacramento has a high local unemployment rate. But local job growth "in the next ten years is expected to top 17.50 percent in new industries such as clean tech, biotech, distribution centers and manufacturing."

Something to cheer about?

The River City Raiders opened up their new stadium to its first game of football last Friday when they hosted San Juan.

To find out if the home fans had anything to cheer about, flip to page three.

Killing at nightspot

Shots were exchanged and one man was killed early Sunday morning at a nightclub near the west end of West Capitol Avenue.

According to Sgt. Mark Tingley of the West Sacramento Police Department, the incident happened at about 2:00 a.m. at Ortega's West, 4205 West Capitol Avenue.

Responding officers found one man dead and a second with serious injuries. Investigators believe one of the victims had quarreled with a suspect before the shooting. Then the suspect apparently got into a vehicle, drove passed the victims and fired three rounds. As the suspect's vehicle drove away, an onsite security guard returned fire, hitting the vehicle several times.

The victim has been identified as Jesus Cortes-Heredia, age 27, of Sacramento, said Robert Labrash, Supervising Deputy Coroner for Yolo County.

The injured victim's wounds do not appear to be life-threatening, said Sgt. Tingley.

As of Monday, no arrests have been made and no suspect has been identified.

Police are looking for the suspect and the suspect's vehicle — a red or burgundy SUV, possibly a Ford Expedition. They believe the vehicle has bullet holes in the back from the shooting.

Anyone with information may call Sgt. Tingley at 617-4956.

Correction

An obituary news article in last week's News-Ledger used two different spellings for the last name of former West Sacramento resident Dee Miner, who died on Aug. 22.

The News-Ledger apologizes for that mistake.

Spiffy 'custom' look chosen for campus police officers' cars

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

People are pointing and asking questions when they see the new, "black sparkle" patrol cars being used by the two West Sacramento police officers who are on school campus duty. That's exactly the point of the flashy paint and logo on the cars, said

Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the West Sacramento Police Department.

"When we're working with youths, we're trying to build a positive relationship with them," Sockman told the News-Ledger. "Having something that will catch their eye and draw them to talk to an officer is a help. It's not unusual for school resource officers to have different cars from the regular officers. I've seen PT Cruisers and Mustangs (in other departments)."

The rest of the W.S.P.D. fleet is in traditional black and white. Old-timers may remember the city's original cop car colors — magenta and white. That scheme led to some derisive comments about "pink cop cars," and has long been discarded.

The new squad cars for officers Mark Kirkland and Sean Saylor are Dodge Chargers, and they boast a special logo. They appear to have a bluish cast, but the paint is a factory standard

"black sparkle," said Sockman. They can do just about everything the rest of the fleet's Ford Crown Victoria's can do, he added. "The Ford Crown Victorias have eight cylinders and a 'police pursuit' package, which basically means a bigger radiator," he said. "They can idle longer and stay at high speeds longer."

The Chargers are more fuel-efficient.

"Officer Saylor came up with this concept," said Sockman. "He worked with our fleet manager and one of our administrative aides, and they all worked with a graphic artist to come up with a design."

How's it working? "Everybody thinks they are great-looking cars," Sockman said. "Even the cops love the cars. I haven't heard any negative reactions — they are getting flagged down a lot, and it really helps to bridge the gap with the kids."

The two "school" officers are funded half by the city, and half by the school district.

"One of them is dedicated to the high school — Officer Kirkland," said Sockman. "Officer Saylor has all the other schools in the system."

How long does a patrol car last before it needs to be replaced?

"We run them to about 125,000 miles or so," he answered. "We get three to five years out of most of them. For these cars, because they're used at the schools, they won't be driven as many miles, and we'll probably get five, six, seven years out of them."

Officers Sean Saylor (left) and Mark Kirkland are the two West Sacramento Police Department officers assigned to duty at local schools. When their traditional black-and-whites needed replacing, the department opted for something with a more attention-getting special paint scheme and logo.

The best things in life aren't 'things' at all

I was talking to a longtime friend and neighbor the other day while taking a little break on one of my neighborhood walks when he suddenly asked me what I was going to write about this week in my column.

"I don't have a clue," I admitted.

"Really? No idea at all?"

"That's right. In fact, at the present time, I don't seem to have a meaningful thought in my head."

"Does that happen to you very often?" he asked me with interest.

"Oh, sure — all the time."

"Really? You mean you just draw a complete blank?"

"That's right."

"But then what do you do?"

"Well, that all depends."

"On what?"

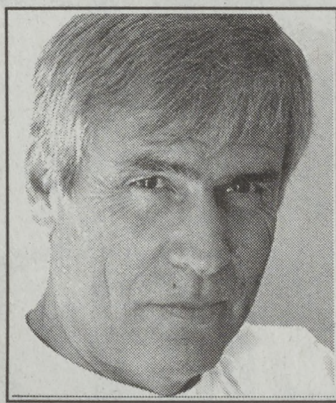

"On what day of the week it is?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well," I tried to explain, "if the weekend has just started, then I know I still have at least 48 hours or so to come up with something before I have to meet my Monday afternoon deadline."

"But what if the weekend comes and goes and you still don't know what you want to write about? Then what do you do?"

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

"I panic!"

"You mean you don't write some extra columns now and then so you will have a few saved up to use in case you have writer's block or something?"

"I'm afraid it doesn't work that way."

"How so?"

"Well, I don't actually sit down on any given day or night and try to write a column — much less more than one of them. In fact, the last place I would try to write a column is at my computer. They have to kinda write themselves in my head first before I ever come close to a computer."

"What?"

"That's right, the column usually writes itself while I'm on a long walk, or on a ride up on the River Road or something, and as soon as that strange process has finished, I then rush over to the office and type it up."

"And how long does that take?"

"Well, that depends. But only a few hours if I know the ending."

"The ending?"

"That's right. In order to write what I consider to be a good column, I always have to know the ending first."

"How come?"

"To tell you the truth, I'm not really sure, but I have learned over the years that if a column doesn't have a good ending, then no matter how well the rest of it sounds, it will still fall flat on its face. And since that is always the case, there's no use to even start writing until I'm happy with the ending."

"Anyway," said my friend, now thoroughly confused, "do other people ever help you come up with ideas for your column?"

"Oh, sure! In fact, people I know are always doing that, bless their hearts. I mean, after writing this column for almost 20 years now, I need all the help I can get! And sometimes something they've read, or heard — or even just a really good quote they've come across, can be very helpful. You know, just something to kick-start my lazy brain into thinking again."

"Hey," said my friend, "I just ran across a great quote! A relative of mine in Nebraska sent it to me yesterday in an email. Want to hear it?"

"Of course."

"There's really not all that much to it," he warned me.

"That's okay."

"And I don't even know who wrote it."

"That's alright, too," I said. "All writers do a bit of stealing now and then."

"Well, then here it is: 'The best things in life are not things at all.'"

A few seconds later, when I reached over and gave my friend a big hug, he said, "What's that for?"

"You've just given me a great idea for this week's column!"

"I have?"

"You sure have! And now all I have to do is finish my walk. So I'll see you later. And thanks!"

"Hey," my friend called out after me as I briskly stepped away from him, "do I get a commission or something?"

As I continued my little stroll down Park Boulevard, I couldn't stop thinking about how true it was, that the best things in life are not things at all. In reality, the best things in life have to do with interpersonal relationships, with times spent with friends and relatives and our own precious families. In fact, the times we spend with those we love and those who love us are all that really matter in this life, and everything else is just well-camouflaged boilerplate.

Ten little words all the way from Nebraska — to remind me that much of life is an illusion, and that the truth is almost always 180 degrees from where we think we will find it.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

What is in the water these days that the tennis professionals are drinking? I wonder what Serena Williams was drinking or thinking after losing her mind in front of a sold out crowd by cursing, throwing a tantrum and misbehaving especially on national television?

Williams was fined $10K for her tirade and suspended but then Roger Federer followed her lead the next day by cussing out the lines men on TV and protesting calls that broke his concentration and finally led to his loss to Argentinean Juan Martin Del Potro.

Serena Williams and her sister Venus just purchased a piece of the Miami Dolphins franchise as a way "to expand their brand" name. Well, that's a nice start for the NFL's first female African-Americans owners that hold an ownership stake in an NFL franchise. I hope she saw the replays of herself on ESPN-not a good way to expand your brand name!

Diamond Notes

The Giants (78-66) are still alive in the wild card chase after going into a four game losing slump and now trail the Rockies by 3 1/2 games and the division leading Dodgers by 7 games with 17 games remaining. The Giants still have 2 games to play against Colorado and travel this weekend to Los Angeles for their last chance three-game series and probably their only chance to gain ground in the wild card race.

River Cats Playoffs

The River Cats took care of the Tacoma Rainiers in the playoffs' first round winning the best of five series three games to one. The Gatos will now take on the Memphis Redbirds in the PCL Championship Series starting Tuesday night in Memphis.

The River Cats are attempting to become the first team to win three consecutive PCL titles since Albuquerque did it from 1980-82. The Cats went 3-1 against Memphis this season with all four games being played in Memphis.

The River Cats Right-hander Chris Gissell will start for Sacramento in Game 1. He will be followed by fellow right-handers Chad Reineke (Game 2), Jerome Williams (Game 3), Shawn Chacon (Game 4) and James Simmons (Game 5).

Games 1 and 2 of the Championship Series will be played at Memphis (both 5:05 p.m. starts) before the series returns to Raley Field for games 3 (Friday, 7:05 p.m.), 4 (Saturday, 7:05 p.m., if necessary) and 5 (Sunday, 1:05 p.m., if necessary). Individual-game tickets for the playoffs will be available at the Raley Field Ticket Office, all Ticketmaster outlets and online at Rivercats.com.

NFL Highlights

The 49ers (1-0) stunned the defending NFC Champion Cardinals 20-16 to set-up their home opener next Sunday with the Seattle Seahawks for sole possession of first place in the NFC West. The Niners offense was completely stopped most of the game but Shaun Hill rallied the troops in the fourth quarter.

The 49ers' moment of the game wasn't a pass or run and not even a designed play but the genius mind of Coach Mike Singletary, who called a timeout late in the third quarter with Arizona moving the ball at will and just laying out the Niners defensive players.

Singletary called a time out and went out on the playing field and gathered this disoriented players and let them clear their heads to hold the Cards to a 43-yard field goal and only a three-point Arizona lead.

That moment shifted the momentum towards the Niners with quarterback Shaun Hill gathering his offensive players on the sidelines for a quick pep talk and saying "Guys, this is it, let's make some magic".

The 49ers needed some magic because after they tried to force Frank Gore down the Cards throats on every play which resulted in an embarrassing 0.8 yards on 25 rushing plays, the 49ers offensive coordinator decided to change it up a bit.

Gore, who ended up with 30 yards on 22 rushing attempts, did final reach pay dirt after Hill orchestrated a masterful 15-play, 80-yard drive that ended with Gore catching a 3-yard touchdown pass to put the Niners ahead for good.

The Oakland Raiders (0-1) had the Chargers on the ropes on Monday night leading the game 20-17 after JaMarcus Russell connected with rookie Louis Murphy on a 57-yard TD pass with 2:34 left in the game. But Phillip Rivers drove San Diego down the field completing 6 of 7 passes for 79 yards and a winning touchdown run by Darren Sproles finished off a great Raiders fourth quarter performance.

The Silver and Black held Tomlinson to 55 yards on 13 carries and outgained the Chargers 217-74 in the first half only to have two turnovers, and a replay review doom their day at the Black Hole.

With no major injuries reported the 49ers will host the Seattle Seahawks (1-0) at Candlestick Park (1 p.m.-FOX) while the Raiders (10 a.m.-ch.13) travel to Kansas City in search of their first win in 2009.

The Raiders' junior varsity squad romped its way to a 72-0 to open the night, and the varsity team followed with a 40-6 victory on opening day. Next home game is Sept. 25 against Antelope.

When a recession hits, a lot of businesses bring their marketing efforts to a screeching halt. That's a great idea -- if you want less business.

A smarter idea is to be careful about what you spend, making sure you get a lot of bang for your hard-earned buck.

Here's an offer we think you can't afford not to try: Get a 25-word ad in our classified ad section for only $12 per month. Very few strings attached. Call 371-8030 today!

Per-View fight, billed as "Number One/Numero Uno," had originally been set for July 18th before Mayweather (39-0, 25 KO's) suffered a rib injury in training that forced a postponement.

HBO has a great card lined up for its paying customers especially with the WBO Interim Lightweight World Championship up for grabs when the Australian and former Lightweight World Champion Michael Katsidis (25-2, 21 KO's) fighting the Woodland native and 2004 U.S. Olympian and lightweight contender Vicente Escobedo (21-1, 13 KO's). At 27 years of age, Vicente is getting his first world title opportunity and he promises to make the best of his opportunity. I predict Escobedo wins by KO inside nine rounds.

Also on the card is unbeaten Chris John, who will defend his WBA Featherweight World Championship against 2000 Olympic Silver Medalist Rocky Juarez and former Welterweight World Champion Zab Judah takes on veteran Antonio Diaz. This HBO card has the making of a fun night "Between the Ropes".

IMPROVEMENT CLUB WORKING TO SECURE INCREASED MEMBERSHIP TO HELP LOCAL AFFAIRS

To increase the membership of the Washington Improvement Club a strenuous effort is being made on the part of the active members who now form the club.

The absence of business men from the club meeting has been noticeable for some time past and this caused no little regret to the property owners who feel that of all others the business men of the town should be more active in public affairs.

Prosperity of the community means their prosperity and their inattention to matters of public interest may mean disaster.

At any rate the interested property owners of the community are always glad to note the presence of business men at affairs that have for their purpose the advancement and progress of the town.

The Washington Improvement Club believes it has done sufficient to show these business men that much has been done by the club and that without the club there would be a lagging and a dragging that would be detrimental to the community.

The construction of the Washington public school last year showed an example of what can be accomplished by a few people working harmoniously and towards a final end. In that two or three people started the movement. Gradually it grew and the school children carried the gospel of advancement to their folks at home.

The result achieved in this way is too palpable to need repetition.

There are many many improvements that can be made through the cooperation of all the people in the town. Only a little time is required and membership in the club costs only ten cents a month. Surely that is not too much to ask of the business men who sell their wares to the town people and make a profit from the trade given them by property owners and residents.

In order to encourage more membership the club has agreed to remit all back dues and although the treasury is not very strong it is far from being broke.

The ladies of the club are going to make a special effort to interview the business men of the town and ask them to unite their efforts in the cause of common advance.

In the absence of the Secretary last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Stewart took her place.

It was reported to the club that the flag which had been bought and presented to the old fire department had been returned and was now ready for service on the Town Hall.

It was also reported that the piano owned by the club and located in the Town Hall had its lock repaired.

LAWRENCE ARRESTED FOR HIGH SPEEDING

While on his way home last Saturday night Joseph Lawrence, a Washington contractor, was hurrying along Second street in Sacramento near the M-street bridge and ran into an auto delivery owned by A. Schaden, damaging the Ford considerably and throwing out the driver.

He offered to pay for all damages and Schaden refused to prosecute.

Joe sometimes becomes reckless with his high power car, but has escaped serious injury so far.

He says that in the near future he is going to buy a jitney, whose maximum speed will not be greater than ten miles per hour.

BRADFORD ISLAND A FARM OWNED BY LOCAL CAPITALISTS

A tract of 250 acres of land has been purchased on Bradford island, in the San Joaquin delta region, by three Sacramento men. The land is in Contra Costa County, and is a part of the Bradford Reclamation District. The three buyers are A. B. Curtis, manager of the Sloss interests in Sacramento; F. J. Coggins of the California Producers Company, and Joe Lawrence, a contractor of Washington. The tract was purchased from Julia B. Kirk.

The hour has struck, and deaf we are if we hear not the cannon's roar.

MYSTERIOUS ESCAPE FROM WOODLAND COUNTY JAIL

There was considerable comment around Washington yesterday evening when the following despatch informed many that Wm. Bruner had escaped from the custody of Sheriff Monroe:

"Woodland, March 7.—William Bruner, who had served forty-seven days of a seven months' sentence for bootlegging, has escaped from jail.

"Bruner, who was a trusty, had access to the side and rear doors and he walked out of jail. He then went to the home of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Anthony, who pleaded with him to return. Just then an automobile came past the Anthony house and Bruner got into it and went away.

"The police believe that the escape was pre-arranged, and that some local person in an automobile aided Bruner.

"Four years ago when Bruner was arrested for a similar offense, he skipped out, leaving his bondsmen to make good."

Some people were not bashful in saying that the escape was a bluff and that it bore no little weight in some criminal cases that are now pending before the Superior Court.

Neither the local Constable nor the Sacramento police were advised of the break made by Bruner, although it is customary to send out wires in all directions when such things happen.

A YOUNG BUTCHER ADDED TO POPULATION

At the home of A. Silberstein a baby boy was born on March 5th, weighing seven pounds at birth.

Arthur is very proud because this is the first child in his family and is expected to become an expert butcher like his father.

ing the story published in Sacramento papers last Sunday about a hold-up supposed to have taken place at this end of the M-street bridge. Nobody in Washington heard of or saw the hold-up. The claim was made that a taxi driver was held up by five well-dressed and unmasked men. A party inside the taxi was then ordered to get out, when he was searched, but nothing of value was found on him according to the story. Poking the victim with their rifle he was ordered back into the taxi and the driver ordered to be on his way. The Sacramento papers believed the man in the taxi to be F. H. Sherman, manager of the Sacramento Valley Dock and Warehouse. Mr. Sherman disclaims any knowledge of a hold-up.

There is a possibility that West Sacramento or Washington may be selected as a site of a large sash, door and pencil manufacturing plant calling for an investment of $150,000 or more. W. B. Thurman of New York and San Francisco spent last Saturday in this neighborhood, accompanied by Harry Maddox and some other members of the Chamber of Commerce.

The celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Leinberger held on March 4th at the home on Third street was attended by a great crowd of friends and relatives. Many beautiful presents of flowers and other tokens of estimation were sent to the aged couple and they spent a day of rejoicing marred by no regrets and blessed with good health and happiness. The affair was more in the nature of a public reception than anything else.

Word was received yesterday evening of the marriage of Donnel R. McKeown to Mary L. Richardson in San Francisco. Donnell is well known in Washington, having lived here for several years with his parents but moving to Sacramento two years ago. Lately he has been engaged in business in San Francisco and Sacramento.

PARENT TEACHERS NOMINATE OFFICERS FOR COMING TERM

At the meeting of the Parent-Teachers yesterday afternoon officers were nominated for the coming year.

Previously a nominating committee had been named and the recommendations made by it were nearly all ratified.

So far those nominated for the offices for the coming term are as follows:

President, Mrs. Belle Parkinson; First Vice-President, Prof. A. L. Case; Secretary, Mrs. A. Dasonville; Treasurer, Mrs. P. A. Hart; Historian, Mrs. M. L. Manchester; Orator, Mrs. F. De Riso.

Nominations are still open and may be made until the election, which will be held at the next meeting of the club.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE IN SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION

James L. Clifton has announced himself a candidate for the position of School Trustee in Washington at the election to be held on March 29th.

To this date Mrs. Belle Parkinson has had a clear field although others had been mentioned as desirous of filling the place.

Only thirty-nine voters had registered at the time that registration was completed for this election, but in this matter there seems to prevail a doubt.

Some claim that only those registered this year can vote, while others claim that the registration in force in 1917 covers.

Probably a ruling from the District Attorney will be received before the date of election. The entry of Mr. Clifton will make the election a lively one.

The salary of the attorney for the State Reclamation Board was raised a few days ago from $3600 to $5000 per year.

Evidently there are some funds on hand that have never been spent and no easy loophole outside of the above-mentioned raise.

GUEST COMMENTARY:

Health officials on 'stake-out' against H1N1 flu virus

From Ada Barros-Heiser, Health Educator, and Beth Gabor, Yolo County Public Information Officer

The stakeout is on-going. The devoted epidemiologist up all night waiting, watching, hoping the dreaded disease will come out of hiding. If this happens, the epidemiologist will be hot on its tracks, ready to catch the disease in the act of taking out another victim. One could think this is how the Yolo County Health Department conducts surveillance? While most have heard the term, most likely in TV cop shows, few actually know how it works in public health. Surveillance is one of the most important responsibilities of a health department.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), public health surveillance is "the ongoing systematic collection, analysis, and interpretation of health data essential to the planning, implementation and evaluation of public health practice, closely integrated with the timely dissemination of these data to those who need to know." What does that really mean?

The first real surveillance-related public health action likely occurred during the bubonic plague, when health authorities boarded ships near the Republic of Venice to prevent people ill with plague-like illness from disembarking. In more modern times, surveillance data is used to assess public health status, define priorities, evaluate programs and conduct research. In Yolo County, surveillance tells the health officer where the problems exist, who is affected, and where programmatic and prevention activities should be directed.

It is important to note that collecting data is merely one step in carrying out surveillance. Public health and medical communities must also be able to share data with each other and key policymakers to take action to control and prevent disease, especially during an outbreak, such as the current H1N1 pandemic. Through surveillance, epidemiologists at the CDC have been able to identify key information concerning H1N1, such as risk factors for infection and illness, how easily the disease is transmitted, and how long people are potentially infectious. This data helped establish public health policy and guidelines on who has priority to receive vaccine, what health care workers must do to prevent infection, and how long people need to stay home so as not to infect others.

Surveillance is also important during non-outbreak times to provide baseline measurements which serve as important references in future outbreaks. In non-outbreak disease situations, quality health information is also essential for planning and implementing health policy. In the 1990s, surveillance concepts were applied to new areas of public health practice such as chronic disease, environmental and occupational health, and injury control. Risk factor data are especially important as predictors of future disease or injury. Many health and safety laws are a product of surveillance, such as helmet and seatbelt laws, where data demonstrated those most likely to survive motorcycle and vehicle crashes used helmets and seatbelts. Today, surveillance is used to implement policies to help control and direct resources towards public health issues such as obesity.

In real life, the public health epidemiologist may not be waiting in a car on a stake-out to catch a killer, but he or she most definitely helps to identify and possibly predict the killer's next moves. By doing so, the Yolo County Health Department can control and prevent disease, and save lives.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

West Sac plays a good game

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the parents of the River City High School Booster Club who worked the snack bar for the maiden game on the new field last Friday. We had a few glitches, but all in all it was a memorable evening with River City taking the spotlight on KCRA, Channel 3, 11 O'clock News and winning both their Jr Varsity and Varsity games against San Juan High School. I would also like to thank Andy Alvarez, Jr. Raiders and Mark Perry, Parent. Without their help, we never would have gotten the snack bar ready to open on Friday. Also, midway through the varsity game we ran out of CO2 for our soda machine and thought we were going to be mobbed in the heat. Luckily the Pheasant Club had an extra and Paul Palamidessi gladly offered it to us. It is that kind of community family that makes West Sacramento special. I hope everyone will remember their kindness and willingness to help when they are looking for a place to dine.

Lastly, I would like to thank the community for their out pour of support for our students. The fans were plentiful and enthusiastic. The River City staff were friendly and helpful and it was a memorable evening for all in attendance. Thank you, West Sacramento.

Help fight DUI

On October 31, 2008, my daughter, Jessica Fraire and her friend Rosa Zaragoza were hit by a drunk driver. Rosa suffered multiple broken bones and memory loss. My daughter died a few days later on her sister's third birthday.

Jessica was a senior at River City High School. She was working hard to graduate in hopes of going to the Fashion Institute. Jessica was the eldest of four kids. She loved taking pictures, playing with her little sister, and making jewelry. My family has suffered a tragic loss I wish no family had to go through.

Since then we have been involved with M.A.D.D., Mother's Against, Drunk Driving. On October 17th at South Side Park in Sacramento M.A.D.D. will hold "Walk Like M.A.D.D." an event to raise funds to help with the awareness of drinking and driving. All funds donated will stay in the Sacramento area and will go directly to helping victims throw their time of need. M.A.D.D. has helped our family with their support groups and helping out with the court procedures.

We are asking that you please support the work M.A.D.D. is doing to eliminate drinking and driving. Friends and family will be walking for team "M.A.D.D. about Jess" Our goal is $500.00. You can help us by:

- 1) Joining our walk team. You can do that by going to WALKLIKEMADD.ORG and click on join an existing team (team M.A.D.D. About Jess)
- 2) Donate to our team. You can donate on line at WALKLIKEMADD.ORG or at Yolo Credit Federal Union at 815 Harbor Blvd. West Sacramento.
- 3) Or you can form your own team at WALKLIKEMADD.ORG nearly 400 sites and 84 million acres. In their fascinating new book, Burns and Dayton Duncan recount the adventures, mythmaking and intense political battles that helped bring about our national park system. In short, both the book and the 12-hour PBS documentary series it accompanies are a glorious celebration of what the authors call "an essential expression of American democracy."

The images, scattered throughout its almost 400 pages of text, are breathtaking. For example, Teddy Roosevelt is depicted with John Muir admiring the beauty of Yosemite Park, a crowd gathers at the 1915 dedication of the Rocky Mountain National Park, Franklin Roosevelt is shown obviously enjoying himself during a 1934 visit to Glacier National Park, and a small group of hikers hover at the pinnacle of Chimney Tops in the Great Smokey Mountains.

In addition to the riveting photographs, Burns and Dayton examine how each parcel of land was bought and added to the system, making this book the next best thing to actually visiting these sites. "The National Parks" is a magnificent book that is a fitting tribute to our National Park System and the people who helped bring it about.

The National Parks: America's Best Idea, An Illustrated History by Dayton Duncan and Ken Burns (Knopf, $50)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Most of us take our national parks as a given but, according to award-winning film producer Ken Burns, establishing them was an extremely radical idea at the time. Imagine, if you will, passing a national law to protect and preserve some of our most magnificent and sacred places, not for royalty or the rich, but for everyone.

The idea was so revolutionary, it might never have happened if not for numerous unsung men and women who joined forces with a handful of powerful movers and shakers, including John Muir, John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Teddy Roosevelt. By working together, they accomplished an almost impossible feat — a park system that would eventually encompass

Classic Hamburger Easy to Make at Home

A contest is held in St. Helena, Calif., every year at this time to "Build a Better Burger." Contestants creatively cook a wide variety of "burgers" containing everything from spicy Andouille sausage to zucchini. While I enjoy sampling all the unusual toppings, oddly shaped burger buns and mind-boggling flavor combinations, sometimes, I just want a classic, all-beef hamburger.

Ground chuck is the meat of choice for most hamburger purists. The preferred combination is 80 percent lean meat to 20 percent fat. The fat makes the burgers moist and flavorful. If the fat content is too low, your hamburger patty will dry out during the cooking process. Combining ground chuck with other ground meats adds a delicious combination of juiciness and flavor to your burger. The top choice for making the ultimate hamburger patty is to combine ground chuck with ground sirloin. Try this great recipe to make a classic American burger!

CLASSIC HAMBURGERS

- 1 pound ground chuck (80/20 blend) or a combination of chuck and sirloin
 - 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
 - 1 teaspoon onion powder
 - 1 teaspoon garlic powder
1. Preheat a large skillet to medium hot. The pan is at the proper temperature when a drop of water dances on its surface.

2. Place the Worcestershire sauce in a medium-sized bowl. Gently press the ground meat into the liquid and turn and fold it over once or twice to combine. (Remember, the more you handle the meat, the softer it will become, and the more likely it will be to fall apart when you cook it.) Wet your hands to keep the meat from sticking. Divide the meat into 4 equal portions. Hold one portion of the ground meat in the palm of your hand, gently turning and shaping the meat and garlic powder.

4. Place the hamburger patties into the hot skillet. For a rare burger, cook 4 to 5 minutes on the first side, turn the patties and cook for an additional 4 to 5 minutes; for a medium burger, cook 7 to 8 minutes per side; for well-done burger, cook 8 to 10 minutes per side.

5. If desired, place a slice of cheese on each burger during the final minute of cooking. When the cheese has melted, remove the burgers to a plate. Rub the skillet with a folded paper towel to clean it. Place the hamburger buns, cut into a patty that is tightly compact and uniform in size. The patty should be a little larger or about the same size as your hamburger bun.

3. Lightly press three fingers into the center of the patty, making a slight, dimple indentation in the center and pushing the meat to the outer edges. (Making it thinner in the middle and thicker around the edges will allow the patty to cook evenly. As hamburger patties cook, they shrink in size. As they shrink, the edges tend to break apart, causing deep cracks to form. To combat this, you want the burger patty to be thinner in the middle than around the edges.) Season the patties on both sides with salt, pepper, onion side down, in the skillet for about 1 minute to toast them. Serve the hamburger patties in the buns with your favorite condiments and vegetables.
